DID YOU KNOW...

- ◆ that 1 in 29 Black men in the United States die as a result of homicide?
- ◆ that the death rate from cancer among Black males is twice that of white males?
- ◆ that the death rate for Black men as a whole is higher than any other major group in the population?
- ◆ that the young Black male is the most frequent victim of violent crime?
- ◆ that the average Black man barely lives long enough to collect social security?

But most of all...did you know that all of these problems could be prevented through education and awareness?

In celebration of Men's Health Week (June 13-19), we invite you to join us for a FREE presentation by nationally-known men's health expert Dr. John Bonhomme, from the Department of Behavioral Sciences and Health Education at Emory University, and Founder of the National Black Men's Health Network. Dr. Bonhomme's areas of expertise include minority health, HIV/AIDS, addictions, and the effect that family relationships have on men's health.
